

LITTLE JOE'S CASE.

Czar Gerry's Tactics Denounced by Indignant Readers.

Better Not Have a Society Such as His.

Deep Interest in the Habeas Corpus Hearing Monday.

The public interest in Little Joe Miller, the six-year-old Italian boy who was snatched from his parents by the Gerry Society, Oct. 28 last and held by that body in defiance of an order by Justice Ryan for his release, is increasing as the time draws near for the hearing next Monday on the writ of habeas corpus.

Leaders of The Evening World will remember the disgraceful efforts of the Gerry party to avoid grasping to open court by their responsibility for preparing two unwarranted and untrue affidavits in the habeas corpus hearing before Justice Trux in Supreme Court Chambers.

The heartbroken parents were in court on both occasions. The mother's tears on being told that her child would not even be placed under bail until the writ of habeas corpus was finally disposed of had no effect upon Mr. Gerry.

On the contrary, when begged to allow the poor woman to embrace her boy, Mr. Gerry attached such conditions to the favor that she was told that her child was being snatched from her by the Gerry Society.

It is only by obtaining office that a member can escape the duties of the Gerry Society as a member of Parliament.

Therefore, when a member desires to leave the House he applies for the stewardship of the Children Hundreds. When this is conferred upon him he becomes an ex-member of Parliament. He then resigns the stewardship and leaves the position vacant for the next member of the House who desires to withdraw.

Should the election petition judges send to Parliament a presentment against Bishop Nulty and the priests who are accused of intimidation the Irish Executive would have no alternative but to prosecute them.

The Irish Catholic bishops have already declined to discuss a meeting to discuss the situation as bearing on future political manifestations, which, it is likely, will be more carefully worked than those heretofore issued by the bishops.

Amendments to Rothchild Monetary Plan Be Proposed.

Amendments to the Rothchild Monetary Plan were proposed by Mr. Nulty, M.P., on Tuesday, Dec. 2, when the Monetary Committee resumed its session on Tuesday.

With regard to the plan of Mr. Nulty, Sir William Hamilton, one of the British delegates, will bring forward further amendments to Mr. Rothchild's proposals.

It was therefore not a little surprising to everybody in the court-room when Justice Trux announced that the adjournment should be for a week.

It was therefore not a little surprising to everybody in the court-room when Justice Trux announced that the adjournment should be for a week.

It was therefore not a little surprising to everybody in the court-room when Justice Trux announced that the adjournment should be for a week.

It was therefore not a little surprising to everybody in the court-room when Justice Trux announced that the adjournment should be for a week.

It was therefore not a little surprising to everybody in the court-room when Justice Trux announced that the adjournment should be for a week.

It was therefore not a little surprising to everybody in the court-room when Justice Trux announced that the adjournment should be for a week.

It was therefore not a little surprising to everybody in the court-room when Justice Trux announced that the adjournment should be for a week.

It was therefore not a little surprising to everybody in the court-room when Justice Trux announced that the adjournment should be for a week.

It was therefore not a little surprising to everybody in the court-room when Justice Trux announced that the adjournment should be for a week.

It was therefore not a little surprising to everybody in the court-room when Justice Trux announced that the adjournment should be for a week.

It was therefore not a little surprising to everybody in the court-room when Justice Trux announced that the adjournment should be for a week.

It was therefore not a little surprising to everybody in the court-room when Justice Trux announced that the adjournment should be for a week.

It was therefore not a little surprising to everybody in the court-room when Justice Trux announced that the adjournment should be for a week.

It was therefore not a little surprising to everybody in the court-room when Justice Trux announced that the adjournment should be for a week.

It was therefore not a little surprising to everybody in the court-room when Justice Trux announced that the adjournment should be for a week.

It was therefore not a little surprising to everybody in the court-room when Justice Trux announced that the adjournment should be for a week.

DAWITT MAY BE UNSEATED.

And Charges of Intimidation Made Against Bishop Nulty.

Irish Bishops Call a Meeting to Consider This New Political Issue.

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS. LONDON, Dec. 2.—The Irish bishops were naturally jubilant when they succeeded in having Mr. Fulham, the anti-Parnellite who was elected to represent South Meath in Parliament, deprived of his seat, and there is a prospect that they will have further cause for joy in the case of Mr. Michael Davitt, against whose return from North Meath a petition has been presented to the court.

In the case of Mr. Fulham, clerical intimidation in favor of Mr. Davitt is charged by the Parnellites. It is expected that the judges, after unseating Mr. Davitt, will report Bishop Nulty, of Meath, and several priests of that diocese to Parliament as guilty of intimidation.

It has been stated that Mr. Davitt desires to resign his seat and to stand again for election without priestly assistance, but under the charges of undue clerical influence he would not be allowed to accept the Stewardship of the Children Hundreds.

It may be stated for the benefit of those not familiar with the procedure of the House of Commons that no member can resign in the ordinary manner. It is provided, however, that no office having emolument attached can be conferred by the Crown on a member of the House without his seat becoming vacant.

It is only by obtaining office that a member can escape the duties of the Gerry Society as a member of Parliament.

Therefore, when a member desires to leave the House he applies for the stewardship of the Children Hundreds. When this is conferred upon him he becomes an ex-member of Parliament. He then resigns the stewardship and leaves the position vacant for the next member of the House who desires to withdraw.

Should the election petition judges send to Parliament a presentment against Bishop Nulty and the priests who are accused of intimidation the Irish Executive would have no alternative but to prosecute them.

The Irish Catholic bishops have already declined to discuss a meeting to discuss the situation as bearing on future political manifestations, which, it is likely, will be more carefully worked than those heretofore issued by the bishops.

Amendments to Rothchild Monetary Plan Be Proposed.

Amendments to the Rothchild Monetary Plan were proposed by Mr. Nulty, M.P., on Tuesday, Dec. 2, when the Monetary Committee resumed its session on Tuesday.

With regard to the plan of Mr. Nulty, Sir William Hamilton, one of the British delegates, will bring forward further amendments to Mr. Rothchild's proposals.

It was therefore not a little surprising to everybody in the court-room when Justice Trux announced that the adjournment should be for a week.

It was therefore not a little surprising to everybody in the court-room when Justice Trux announced that the adjournment should be for a week.

It was therefore not a little surprising to everybody in the court-room when Justice Trux announced that the adjournment should be for a week.

It was therefore not a little surprising to everybody in the court-room when Justice Trux announced that the adjournment should be for a week.

It was therefore not a little surprising to everybody in the court-room when Justice Trux announced that the adjournment should be for a week.

It was therefore not a little surprising to everybody in the court-room when Justice Trux announced that the adjournment should be for a week.

It was therefore not a little surprising to everybody in the court-room when Justice Trux announced that the adjournment should be for a week.

It was therefore not a little surprising to everybody in the court-room when Justice Trux announced that the adjournment should be for a week.

It was therefore not a little surprising to everybody in the court-room when Justice Trux announced that the adjournment should be for a week.

It was therefore not a little surprising to everybody in the court-room when Justice Trux announced that the adjournment should be for a week.

It was therefore not a little surprising to everybody in the court-room when Justice Trux announced that the adjournment should be for a week.

It was therefore not a little surprising to everybody in the court-room when Justice Trux announced that the adjournment should be for a week.

It was therefore not a little surprising to everybody in the court-room when Justice Trux announced that the adjournment should be for a week.

It was therefore not a little surprising to everybody in the court-room when Justice Trux announced that the adjournment should be for a week.

It was therefore not a little surprising to everybody in the court-room when Justice Trux announced that the adjournment should be for a week.

It was therefore not a little surprising to everybody in the court-room when Justice Trux announced that the adjournment should be for a week.

It was therefore not a little surprising to everybody in the court-room when Justice Trux announced that the adjournment should be for a week.

SCRUBBED UNTIL HE BLED.

Alleged Cruelty to a Boy on the U. S. Steamship Adams.

Charges May Be Preferred When the Ship Reaches San Francisco.

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS. SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 3.—The morning call says that charges of extreme cruelty will be preferred against Commander Thomas Nelson, of the United States Steamship Adams, against whose return from North Meath a petition has been presented to the court.

It is alleged that, acting under Commander Nelson's orders, Adams and his crew severely tortured an apprentice boy named August Moritz, who is a small-sized German boy, seventeen years old, shipped on the Adams prior to her cruise to Hawaii, last spring from the boys and girls' aid society of this city, where he had a good reputation.

The call says that after the ship had been in Hawaii for some time, the sailors were beating fresh water for washing purposes, but that this water was allowed to the Chinese servants of the ship, and that the officers themselves received a double allowance.

The men were afraid to use salt water for washing, for fear of scurvy, and the general effect on the health, so they did not wash at all and soon were in a filthy condition.

Finally Moritz was sent forward by the sailors as a committee to ask Commander Nelson for fresh water. The Commander asked the boy what he wanted water for, and the boy said he wanted it to clean himself.

The call says that thereupon Nelson ordered his crew to beat Moritz with a stick of wood and scrub him; that Adams turned the apprentice over to Master-at-Arms, who beat him with a stick of wood and scrubbed him down and scrubbed his back with cayenne, sand and salt water until he bled. They then dressed him in a new suit.

As a result of this treatment the boy's back was in a terrible condition. Hunting horns formed, and his condition became critical.

The Adams is on her way to San Francisco from Hawaii, and is expected here in a few days. The story was brought down by the sailors on the Monahan, which arrived at San Francisco last night. A careful investigation is being made.

THE ADAMS IS ON HER WAY TO SAN FRANCISCO FROM HAWAII, AND IS EXPECTED HERE IN A FEW DAYS.

THE ADAMS IS ON HER WAY TO SAN FRANCISCO FROM HAWAII, AND IS EXPECTED HERE IN A FEW DAYS.

THE ADAMS IS ON HER WAY TO SAN FRANCISCO FROM HAWAII, AND IS EXPECTED HERE IN A FEW DAYS.

THE ADAMS IS ON HER WAY TO SAN FRANCISCO FROM HAWAII, AND IS EXPECTED HERE IN A FEW DAYS.

THE ADAMS IS ON HER WAY TO SAN FRANCISCO FROM HAWAII, AND IS EXPECTED HERE IN A FEW DAYS.

THE ADAMS IS ON HER WAY TO SAN FRANCISCO FROM HAWAII, AND IS EXPECTED HERE IN A FEW DAYS.

THE ADAMS IS ON HER WAY TO SAN FRANCISCO FROM HAWAII, AND IS EXPECTED HERE IN A FEW DAYS.

THE ADAMS IS ON HER WAY TO SAN FRANCISCO FROM HAWAII, AND IS EXPECTED HERE IN A FEW DAYS.

THE ADAMS IS ON HER WAY TO SAN FRANCISCO FROM HAWAII, AND IS EXPECTED HERE IN A FEW DAYS.

THE ADAMS IS ON HER WAY TO SAN FRANCISCO FROM HAWAII, AND IS EXPECTED HERE IN A FEW DAYS.

THE ADAMS IS ON HER WAY TO SAN FRANCISCO FROM HAWAII, AND IS EXPECTED HERE IN A FEW DAYS.

THE ADAMS IS ON HER WAY TO SAN FRANCISCO FROM HAWAII, AND IS EXPECTED HERE IN A FEW DAYS.

THE ADAMS IS ON HER WAY TO SAN FRANCISCO FROM HAWAII, AND IS EXPECTED HERE IN A FEW DAYS.

THE ADAMS IS ON HER WAY TO SAN FRANCISCO FROM HAWAII, AND IS EXPECTED HERE IN A FEW DAYS.

THE ADAMS IS ON HER WAY TO SAN FRANCISCO FROM HAWAII, AND IS EXPECTED HERE IN A FEW DAYS.

THE ADAMS IS ON HER WAY TO SAN FRANCISCO FROM HAWAII, AND IS EXPECTED HERE IN A FEW DAYS.

THE ADAMS IS ON HER WAY TO SAN FRANCISCO FROM HAWAII, AND IS EXPECTED HERE IN A FEW DAYS.

THE ADAMS IS ON HER WAY TO SAN FRANCISCO FROM HAWAII, AND IS EXPECTED HERE IN A FEW DAYS.

THE ADAMS IS ON HER WAY TO SAN FRANCISCO FROM HAWAII, AND IS EXPECTED HERE IN A FEW DAYS.

THE ADAMS IS ON HER WAY TO SAN FRANCISCO FROM HAWAII, AND IS EXPECTED HERE IN A FEW DAYS.

POUGHKEEPSIE WAS HIS HOME.

To-Day's Testimony in State Senator Osborne's Examination.

THE EXAMINATION OF STATE SENATOR EDWARD J. OSBORNE, OF POUGHKEEPSIE, CHARGED BY CHIEF SUPERVISOR OF FEDERAL ELECTIONS JOHN J. DAVEPORT WITH ILLEGAL REGISTRATION, WAS CONTINUED BEFORE UNITED STATES COMMISSIONER SULLIVAN IN HIS OFFICE IN THE FEDERAL BUILDING THIS MORNING.

Senator Osborne's examination was begun Nov. 27, when Assistant United States District Attorney Mott, for the Government, presented evidence that Mr. Osborne registered in the Fourth Ward of Poughkeepsie from the Nelson House, and testimony which attempted to show that he had given up his residence in Poughkeepsie and taken it up at Albany, where he spent much of his time during the session of the Legislature.

On his own behalf the Senator swore that he had lived in Poughkeepsie since 1874, and voted there in the Fourth Ward for forty years, and never intended to give up his residence there.

His wife and five children were buried in the town, and he kept his bank account there. Since his wife's death in 1890 he had lived at the Nelson House whenever in town.

Mayor Edward Elsworth and George R. Nelson, who had been in the office of the Senator, were called to the stand and testified that they had always regarded Senator Osborne as a resident of that town.

They got him in the corner and both began to talk at him about the same time.

"Mr. Osborne said, listening to them, tearing up pieces of paper to little bits, and seeming to take it all in. I was watching him, and soon saw his eyes begin to close. I knew that the proposed scheme was no good."

The men never let up, however, and soon became so excited that they seemed to forget that Mr. Osborne was before them. He said to them: "Gentlemen, I hate to interrupt you, but don't you see you are disturbing Mr. Osborne's nap?"

This seemed to bring them to their senses. They looked at Mr. Osborne in astonishment, and then they began to talk again.

They looked at Mr. Osborne in astonishment, and then they began to talk again.

They looked at Mr. Osborne in astonishment, and then they began to talk again.

They looked at Mr. Osborne in astonishment, and then they began to talk again.

They looked at Mr. Osborne in astonishment, and then they began to talk again.

They looked at Mr. Osborne in astonishment, and then they began to talk again.

They looked at Mr. Osborne in astonishment, and then they began to talk again.

They looked at Mr. Osborne in astonishment, and then they began to talk again.

They looked at Mr. Osborne in astonishment, and then they began to talk again.

They looked at Mr. Osborne in astonishment, and then they began to talk again.

They looked at Mr. Osborne in astonishment, and then they began to talk again.

They looked at Mr. Osborne in astonishment, and then they began to talk again.

They looked at Mr. Osborne in astonishment, and then they began to talk again.

They looked at Mr. Osborne in astonishment, and then they began to talk again.

They looked at Mr. Osborne in astonishment, and then they began to talk again.

They looked at Mr. Osborne in astonishment, and then they began to talk again.

They looked at Mr. Osborne in astonishment, and then they began to talk again.

They looked at Mr. Osborne in astonishment, and then they began to talk again.

They looked at Mr. Osborne in astonishment, and then they began to talk again.

They looked at Mr. Osborne in astonishment, and then they began to talk again.

They looked at Mr. Osborne in astonishment, and then they began to talk again.

THE MONEY KING DEAD.

Continued from First Page.

business men whom he brought in contact with, and has never given the slightest indication of presuming on his close relationship to the power at the head of the road.

Unlike his brother, Abram is genial and companionable, is not afraid of taking a drive with the crowd, is fond of outdoor exercise and is an enthusiastic driver and fond of the horse. His place in history is with the obscure brothers of Hiram, Beaconsfield, Gladstone, Wellington, Pitt and other great men.

Gold's Way with Visitors.

Mr. Morrell is chock full of good stories about Gold's private life and ways. One of Gold's characteristics was his dislike of giving offense to any one who called to see him, no matter how much he might be bored.

He would always receive visitors graciously and listen to what they had to say. If it interested him he would be all attention, but if the conversation became monotonous and tiresome Mr. Gold would gradually begin to yawn and finally drop off to sleep, while his visitor would often keep on talking for a long time without noticing that his hearer was asleep.

"I remember once," said Mr. Morrell, "just after Mr. Gold got back from Europe, two German came in to see him about some great scheme they had to propose. One of them could speak very good English and the other could speak very little.

They got him in the corner and both began to talk at him about the same time.

"Mr. Gold said, listening to them, tearing up pieces of paper to little bits, and seeming to take it all in. I was watching him, and soon saw his eyes begin to close. I knew that the proposed scheme was no good."

The men never let up, however, and soon became so excited that they seemed to forget that Mr. Gold was before them. He said to them: "Gentlemen, I hate to interrupt you, but don't you see you are disturbing Mr. Gold's nap?"

This seemed to bring them to their senses. They looked at Mr. Gold in astonishment, and then they began to talk again.

They looked at Mr. Gold in astonishment, and then they began to talk again.

They looked at Mr. Gold in astonishment, and then they began to talk again.

They looked at Mr. Gold in astonishment, and then they began to talk again.

They looked at Mr. Gold in astonishment, and then they began to talk again.

They looked at Mr. Gold in astonishment, and then they began to talk again.

They looked at Mr. Gold in astonishment, and then they began to talk again.

They looked at Mr. Gold in astonishment, and then they began to talk again.

They looked at Mr. Gold in astonishment, and then they began to talk again.

They looked at Mr. Gold in astonishment, and then they began to talk again.

They looked at Mr. Gold in astonishment, and then they began to talk again.

They looked at Mr. Gold in astonishment, and then they began to talk again.

They looked at Mr. Gold in astonishment, and then they began to talk again.

They looked at Mr. Gold in astonishment, and then they began to talk again.

They looked at Mr. Gold in astonishment, and then they began to talk again.

They looked at Mr. Gold in astonishment, and then they began to talk again.

They looked at Mr. Gold in astonishment, and then they began to talk again.

They looked at Mr. Gold in astonishment, and then they began to talk again.

They looked at Mr. Gold in astonishment, and then they began to talk again.

They looked at Mr. Gold in astonishment, and then they began to talk again.

LOST IN THE WESTERN OCEAN.

Steamship Lunedale Foundered After Two Weeks' Fight.

Officers of the British Steamship Cynthia, just arrived, bring the story of the foundering in mid-ocean of the British steamship Lunedale, which was rescued by the Cynthia.

On Nov. 21, in latitude 32 degrees, 37 minutes, longitude 29 degrees, 20 minutes, he sighted distress signals flying from the masthead of a large steamship. Running down near her he read the signal, which was: "I am sinking."

A heavy gale blowing at the time made it dangerous to lower the Cynthia's boats, but it was finally accomplished and the sinking vessel's captain and crew were transferred to the rescuing steamship.

Capt. Lorrimer said that the Lunedale sailed from Philadelphia, Oct. 21 for Copenhagen, when, laden, she was nearly out of sight of land before they were encountered by heavy gales and tremendous seas. For two weeks the storm raged unintermittently, and Nov. 11, about 11 o'clock, the ship was overtaken by the rough of the sea, waves breaking over her decks and leaving tons of water in her hold, which rendered her almost unmanageable.

The Lunedale was a three-decked British steamer of 1,041 tons register, she measured 210 feet in length and 27 feet 6 inches in beam. She was built at Sunderland, England, was her builder and owner.

FATHER FINNEGAN'S BREAK.

Got Drinking, Was Robbed and Wound Up in a Cell.

Rev. Michael Finnegan, a Catholic priest, forty-eight years old, was arraigned in the Essex Market Police court this morning on a charge of disorderly conduct.

The prisoner was a well educated, fine looking man, a little the worse for his recent experience in this city, and as he stood in front of Justice Hogan he looked a little crestfallen.

He said that he came from Nashville, Tenn., and was on his way to Montreal. Begot drinking, was robbed of his clothes, papers and other valuables, and at present had on a suit of clothing that was given him.

He had no money, and last night went to 105 Madison street, where he heard that Henry Baldwin, a gentleman and Catholic faith, lived. He asked Mr. Baldwin for some lodgings with him. Mr. Baldwin, he said, instead of giving him anything, ordered him to get out of his house.

In court Mr. Finnegan said that the prisoner was drunk and called him out of bed. When told to get out of his house, he was told to get out of his house.

He was told to get out of his house, and he was told to get out of his house.

He was told to get out of his house, and he was told to get out of his house.

He was told to get out of his house, and he was told to get out of his house.

He was told to get out of his house, and he was told to get out of his house.

He was told to get out of his house, and he was told to get out of his house.

He was told to get out of his house, and he was told to get out of his house.

He was told to get out of his house, and he was told to get out of his house.

He was told to get out of his house, and he was told to get out of his house.

He was told to get out of his house, and he was told to get out of his house.

He was told to get out of his house, and he was told to get out of his house.

He was told to get out of his house, and he was told to get out of his house.

He was told to get out of his house, and he was told to get out of his house.

He was told to get out of his house, and he was told to get out of his house.

He was told to get out of his house, and he was told to get out of his house.

He was told to get out of his house, and he was told to get out of his house.

He was told to get out of his house, and he was told to get out of his house.

He was told to get out of his house, and he was told to get out of his house.

CLEVELAND COMING HOME.

He Will Be Here Monday, Gilroy Expected To-Morrow.

Pressure on the Mayor-Elect for Appointments to Office.

President-elect Cleveland and Mayor-elect Gilroy will be in the hands of the politicians again next week. Mr. Cleveland is expected to arrive from Exeter Monday morning, and Mr. Gilroy may reach New York to-morrow. He left St. Louis for home last night.

The conference of National Democratic leaders which has been talked of, it can be stated on authority, will not take place for some time at all. All depends on the action by the present Congress in regard to legislation desired by the Democratic party.

The people at the last election, it is claimed, clearly expressed themselves in favor of tariff reform and a change in the fiscal system of the government, and if this Congress carries out the will of the people, there will be no need for an extra session of the new Congress, the leaders say. In their opinion there is, therefore, no hurry for a conference to consider the question of a special session.

Politicians and office-seekers seem convinced that Mr. Cleveland meant just what he said when he declared that he would not consider applications for appointments until after March 4, but that will not rid him of the pressure which is now upon him.

They will call on him just to pay their respects, as it were, and to show that their faith in him is unshaken, and to appoint the other fellow.

As soon as Mr. Gilroy gets back to his desk in Philadelphia, he will be called to the place also. Mr. Gilroy has twenty-five places to fill between now and May 1, and it is no exaggeration to say that there are ten candidates for each place. They are very desirable offices, too, paying all the way from $3,000 to $10,000 a year, and some of them are about twenty or thirty appointments, his personal staff and in the Mayor's Marine's office, which is a very desirable position.

From this it will be seen that the Mayor-elect has a very large number of appointments to make, and that the results to be expected of the game of politics.

The first Welsh Democratic Club of this city will be held at the Adelphi Hotel, tenth avenue and Twenty-third street, on Monday evening, Dec. 6, at 8 o'clock. The organization of the club is in charge of the New York City Welsh Democratic Committee, which has elected Mr. J. H. Roberts, President; Thomas Roberts, Vice-President; John L. Owens, Secretary, and Isaac Evans, Treasurer.